Book Club Questions:

1. What did you think of the book? There's been a lot of hype about this novel - even V.E.Schwab said that she peaked with this book. Did it live up to your expectations?
2. Is there a character that you related to? Who was it and why?
3. Luc took Addie's request and twisted it with many nuances into the Deal that she got. What did you think of the way he interpreted her request? Do you agree that freedom means being free of any ties to another person? Where do you think Addie not being able to make any marks or tell her story/name ties into her request?
4. What did you think made Henry different? Did you expect Henry to have made his own deal?
5. What did you think of Addie's love affair with Luc? Did you see it coming?
6. Did Addie ever love either Luc or Henry? She questions both.
7. When Henry realises the results of his deal, he doesn't reach out to Tabitha, even just to test the effects of his deal. Why do you think he made that choice?
8. Did you think that it was chance that brought Henry and Addie together? Or did you expect it to be a manipulation of Luc's?
9. Schwab hints towards several famous people having sold their souls to Luc. Most notably Beethoven and Sinatra. What did you think of this representation of their talent? If you had to guess another individual who must have sold their soul to access such talent, who would you pick?
10. When Luc came to Henry, and when he appeared to the old woman in New Orleans, he kept the face that Addie gave him. Why do you think he became so attached to this form?
11. BONUS QUESTION: Addie asked for freedom to live, and Henry asked to be loved for a short period of time. If you had to pick between deals, which would you choose? Furthermore, if you were to make your own deal, what would you want? What would you be willing to lose?
