

We Have Always Been Here (A Queer Muslim Memoir)

Author: Samra Habib

Genre: Autobiography

Average Rating: 4.13 / 5

Book Club Questions:

1. Were you familiar with Samra Habib's work in journalism or photography before reading this book?
2. What did you think of her parents and their roles in Samra's story?
3. What were your thoughts on her arranged marriage? And how did that impact her second marriage?
4. Was there a section of the book that you wish Samra had expanded upon?
5. Is there anything in Samra's story that particularly resonated with you?
6. What's a time in your life or a circumstance when you have felt totally alone?
7. There's a chapter near the end of the book where Samra describes her dream family home. Did you find that effective? Or was it confusing or even jarring to the narrative?
8. What comforted Samra and assisted her in becoming the true version of herself?
9. What is your opinion on the title of the book and what does it mean to you?
10. If you could take away one quote from this book - what would it be and why?