1. Did you enjoy the novel? Why or why not?
2. Nell was trying so hard to make Christmas special for her girls, and put a fair amount of stress on herself because of it. A lot of people can relate to this Holiday tendency. How do you cope with the stress and disappointments that can come from pushing too hard? How do you keep Christmas special?
3. Nell has a lot of trouble identifying as her own person, and not as simply a mother or a wife. What would you say are her trademark identifiers? Do you have any and what are they?
4. Typically, in "Hallmark movie" type of books or movies, the love interest is tall, hunky, and misunderstood with some emotional pain in his past. What did you think of Erik's quirky and open character?
5. What did you think of Molly and her desire to leave the small town life? Why did she ultimately change her mind?
6. Felicity's story involved a problem that was a whole year away. How did her "Christmas problem" compare to the problems of her Mother and sister? Was it a good storyline or did it feel like Chamberlin was trying to make a problem for the sake of all three women facing an issue?
7. How did having an ex husband that cheated hinder or enhance the storyline?
8. What background character do you wish had a better story?
